LeasePlan Leads Australian Business Excellence

LeasePlan Australia was recognised as being a leading light of Australian business at the 2004 Australian Business Excellence Awards at the Sydney Town Hall last Friday night.

LeasePlan was awarded the Silver Business Excellence Award, the highest award level recognised on the night.

LeasePlan Australia's Managing Director, Abe Tomas, proudly accepted the honour in front of more than 500 business and government people at the gala black-tie dinner.

"LeasePlan Australia is proud to be recognised in this fashion," said Mr Tomas.

"It is clearly evident from this event that many Australian public and private organisations deserve their place in the global business excellence arena."

Two city councils were also recipients of the prestigious Silver Award, however LeasePlan was the only corporate business to be recognised at this level. No organisations were recognised at the Gold Award level.

As Australia's premier business awards, the Australian Business Excellence Awards has been recognising outstanding organisations in the Australian business community since 1988. Organisations are evaluated against the criteria detailed in the Australian Business Excellence Framework through a process coordinated by SAI Global.

LeasePlan has strived, since its inception 16 years ago, to become the organisation of choice for employees, customers and suppliers. This most recent recognition is testament to the company's achievements in that time and a reflection of its stature as the nation's industry leader in vehicle leasing and fleet management.
